Dear Mark,

Thank you for coming to Phoenix Rescue Mission to film for invisiblepeople.tv. It was a pleasure to meet you and give you a tour of our shelter. I am pleased you found someone to interview for your Vlog and that the "Meet Mark" video filmed outside our campus turned out so well. Thank you also for the blog you did on Change.org where you mentioned us and provided a link to our website and for all your interaction on Twitter. We appreciate all your support.

Not only did you take the time to meet with me, but you have been an invaluable help with many different aspects of social media, online presence and video suggestions. Thank you for being my 'real world' sounding board. I think your experience first hand with homelessness combined with your knowledge of video and television production give you a unique understanding to do the work you're doing and I'm grateful to you for sharing your perspective.

I believe that invisiblepeople.tv along with all your social networking is helping people to redefine what is really means to be homeless in this country and to see how they may actually be able to help.

Thank you again for everything. Best of luck to you in your future videos, I'm anxious to see you cover the entire United States!

With Regards,

Debra Pryor
